TEATRO DELLE ARIETTE TEATRO DA MANGIARE?

by Paola Berselli, Stefano Pasquini with Paola Berselli, Maurizio Ferraresi, Stefano Pasquini direction Stefano Pasquini organizing secretary Irene Bartolini press office Raffaella Ilari production Teatro delle Ariette

Historical production of the Company, the show is an experience and a daily practice, where art, life and work coincide and coexist, inviting the public to eat the things that the Teatro delle Ariette cultivates on its farm in Valsamoggia (Bologna). Sitting around a table, preparing and having a real meal, the Ariette tell about their singular experience as peasant-actors: ten years of life in the countryside and theater done outside the theaters. Conceived in 2000 in the kitchen of the Ariette house, Theater to eat? continues to grow every year, enriching itself with the experience of over 20 years of life and more than 1000 replicas around Italy and Europe.

C ticket €20,00 - the ticket includes dinner offered during the show time 100' and the time for food and words at the table
