ELISABETTA CONSONNI PLUTONE-NOW

by Elisabetta Consonni
with Marta Ciappina, Masako Matsushita, Olimpia Fortuni

In a increasingly complex of this system, where I risk to get lost, well, I need a suspension into myself. I need to take my time. To observe and not to do. To notice small and subtle things into loud phenomenas. To not necessarily understand. To await. To not to do. And if I see something, I'll stare at it and keep on staring and keep on staring, letting something happen.

PLUTONE comes after the experience of Vipassana meditation. Plutone asks to the audience a contemplation of a landscape of centers which constantly search for each other. It is a landscape of concentric evolution where encounters might happen. Plutone is the last planet of the solar system, recently discovered. Astrologically, it governs all the invisible but powerful things, influencing the reality with subtle energies.
